

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A process terminal downloads a program and data necessary for producing an Intranet site having the same mechanisms and functions as those of an Internet site provided by an Internet server, from the Internet server via a network. The process
5 terminal processes the downloaded program and data. For example, the process terminal adds original data usable within an Intranet to the downloaded data. Afterwards, the process terminal constructs the Intranet site having the same mechanisms and functions as those of the Internet site, by installing the processed program and data in an Intranet server.
